

I don't believe huge corporations or anyone else should have the authority to invade my privacy when I am in my own home. They do enough advertising and we get enough junk mail to let us know they are out there and doing business.